

Design Camp

Design Camp is a summer design program for high school students organized by CAM Raleigh (Contemporary Art Museum) at NC State University College of Design. Since its inception over 27 years ago, Design Camp has exposed more than 2,500 high school students to the exciting world of design. Design Camp informs students about college study in design and raises awareness of the impact of art and design through a series of week-long summer programs. Camp projects challenge students to explore their creativity and critical-thinking skills while pushing them to try a range of techniques and media. The exploration of the design process teaches students to question, make choices, generate alternatives, work collaboratively and ultimately broaden their understanding of the world around them.

Camp instructors lead participants through projects involving each of the following design disciplines: architecture, landscape architecture, industrial design, art + design and graphic design. In addition to studio projects, students will visit CAM Raleigh, and participate in other activities all aimed at stimulating their creativity and broadening their understanding of the design field.

Design Camp is for:

- High school students eager to learn more about design in a college environment
- Beginners interested in developing skills and creativity through hands-on experiences
- Teens wanting to meet other high school students who enjoy art and design from around the state and country
- Young artists and designers serious about preparing portfolios for art and design college admission

Who is eligible?

High school students (rising sophomores and juniors for Design Day Camp and rising juniors and seniors for Design Camp Overnight).

How do I apply?

Since we are working on a new and improved registration process this year, please stay tuned to our website (camraleigh.org/design-camp) for information on how to apply. Registration will open on February 19, 2013. Design Camp fills up very quickly so please apply early! We fill the camps on a first come, first served basis.

Do you offer financial assistance?

Limited financial assistance may be available. CAM Raleigh will consider requests for financial assistance based on demonstrated need. Information on how to request financial assistance will be available online on February 19, 2012.

What does it cost?

Registration for the Overnight Design Camp is $1000, and the Day Design Camp, $500. These fees cover the cost of instruction, lodging (for overnight camps only), meals, project supplies and activities. Payment is due in full by April 1, 2013.

Where does it happen?

All camp studio activities are based on-campus at the College of Design. Additionally, campers will visit CAM Raleigh downtown at 409 West Martin Street. Overnight camp participants are housed (double occupancy) in residence halls on campus. We do not honor roommate requests. Counselors reside in the residence halls to supervise activities at all times. The College of Design does not provide housing or overnight supervision for day camp participants.

Who supervises the campers?

Camp Counselors and Teaching Assistants are undergraduate and graduate students at the College of Design. They are the best possible ambassadors for their design discipline and are eager to share their knowledge about design and applying to art and design colleges with camp participants.

If you are a person with a disability and desire any assistive devices, services, or other accommodations to participate in this activity, please contact Julia Rice at (919) 513-2164, Monday–Friday 9 a.m.–5 p.m. to discuss accommodations prior to submitting an application.

Thank you for your interest in Design Camp.
We hope to see you next Summer!
